Boulos & Cooper Pharmaceuticals Company Profile

Overview

Boulos & Cooper Pharmaceuticals is an Australian proprietary company incorporated in October 2013 and is based in Perth, Western Australia. The company is focused on the development of a new class of antibiotics with novel targets. Being a pioneer in the field, the company wholly owns a strong and expanding IP portfolio with patents granted in AU and the US in addition to a number of other provisional and PCT filings. Boulos & Cooper Pharmaceuticals has successfully established a robust framework with a number of industry partners for the development of its key areas of research, operating leanly and maximising investment in research.

Speaker Profile

Dr Ramiz Boulos, Chief Executive Officer

Dr Boulos is an inventor of the novel antimicrobials technology the company is seeking to commercialise. The discovery has attracted media attention, with coverage on Channel Ten News (Australia) in November 2012 and Radio Adelaide in March 2014. Dr Boulos has been active in establishing and publishing scientific works with experts from renowned universities in addition to dynamically engaging the pharmaceutical industry through attendance at pharmaceutical conferences and conventions and direct engagement with representatives from the industry.

In July 2014, Dr Boulos was successfully nominated for a 2014 Young Tall Poppy Science Award for his contribution to the discovery of a new class of antibiotics. Dr Boulos has a science major in Chemistry and Genetics, and a PhD in Chemistry from UWA.
